

Permanent jobs for local talent

This is clean heavy industry, with roles across the province. FTL expects the full campus to provide 500+ permanent jobs, starting with about 150 in the first phase. These are skilled, year-round roles with training and room to grow.

Operated on site, by FTL

FTL is a colocation company and operates its own facilities, with the majority of its team living and working in New Brunswick. Unlike data centres run from head offices elsewhere, FTL's team runs the whole operation of the business across the province, from the building itself to sales, marketing and customer support. FTL intends to build a workforce that reflects the communities around it, including roles reserved for Indigenous employees.

What 500+ roles means in practice

On site

- Data centre technicians
- Electrical and mechanical technicians
- Security personnel
- Facility management

In the community

- Skilled trades
- Local suppliers
- Hospitality
- Professional services

In the province

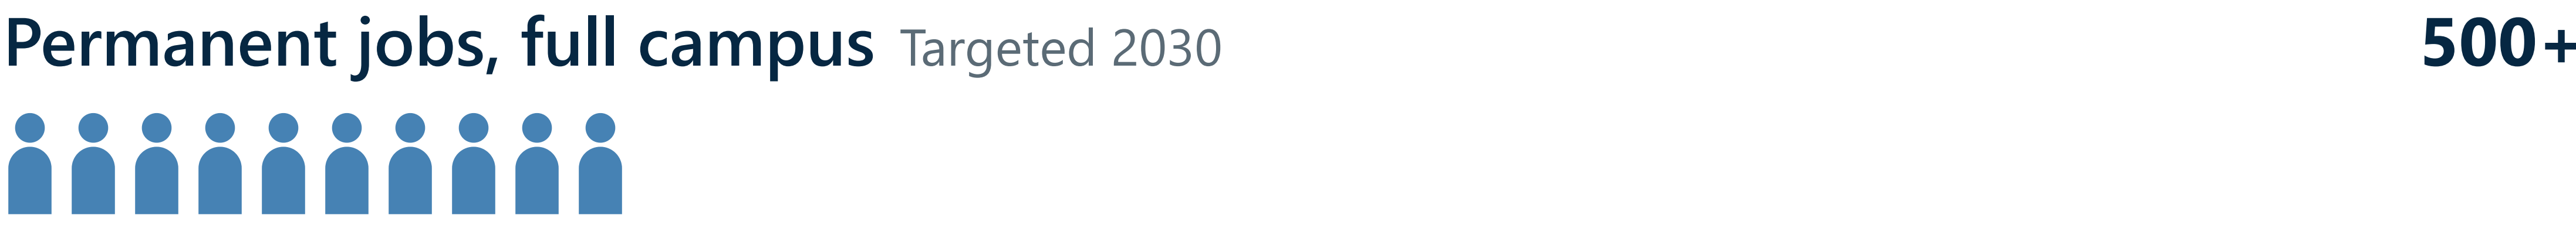

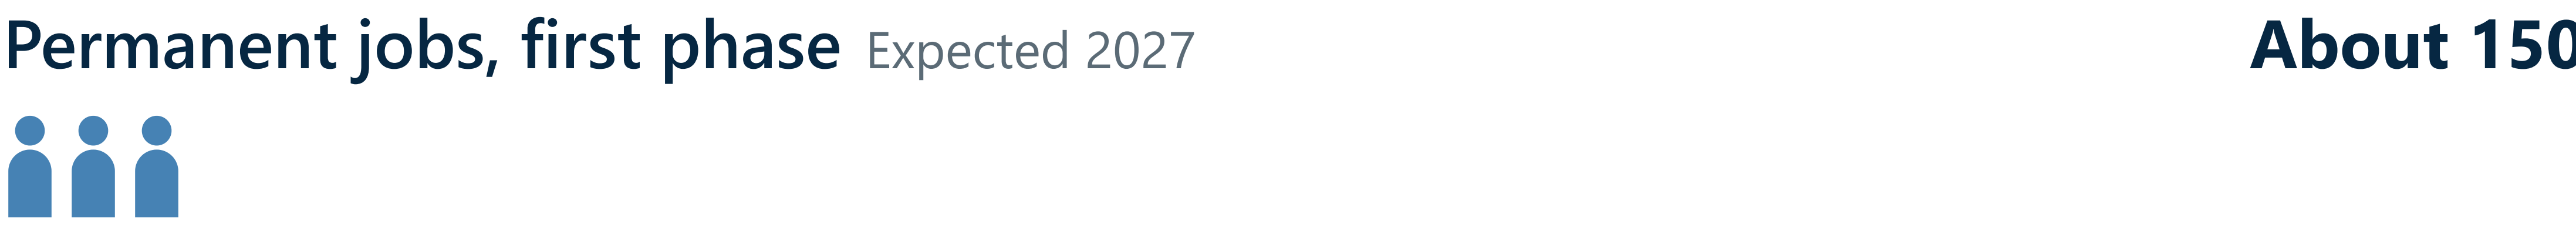

- Sales
- Marketing
- Customer support
- Executive functions

$75,000+

Expected average annual salaries

Meaningful jobs for skilled workers

Construction work with local enterprises, and permanent jobs continue for the life of the campus.

Each figure represents about 50 jobs.
Source: FTL project estimates based on current projections

Questions? Please speak with a member of the FTL team today.